

Economic Development & Transportation launches new Internet web site

“The department is responsible for a wide range of programs, services and opportunities that are available to Nunavummiut,” said Akesuk. “With our web site, the information people need is just one click away, 24 hours a day.”

With broadband Internet in every Nunavut community, the site offers the general public a comprehensive, consolidated collection of information and resources about Economic Development & Transportation.

The web site is available both in English and Inuktitut, with the French and Innuinaqtun to be launched in the very near future. It covers topics ranging from support for small businesses and entrepreneurship to transportation, information on policies, guidelines, as well as application forms and staff contacts.
