Public Health Advisory

Food recall due to salmonella

Date: January 8, 2026
Nunavut-wide

The Department of Health is warning about a food recall issued by the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) due to salmonella contamination.

Consumers should not consume the recalled products, including various pistachios and pistachio-containing products, with the full list of products available on CFIA's website.

Food contaminated with salmonella may not look or smell spoiled but can still make you sick. The recalled products should be thrown out or returned to the location where they were purchased.

Young children, pregnant women, the elderly and people with weakened immune systems may contract serious and sometimes deadly infections. Healthy people may experience short-term symptoms such as fever, headache, vomiting, nausea, abdominal cramps or diarrhea. Long-term complications may include severe arthritis.

If you think you have become sick from consuming the recalled product, call your local health centre.

For more information, visit the Canadian Food Inspection Agency website or call 1-800-442-2342. Sign up for food recalls on the CFIA website.
