Emergency Management Exemplary Service Award nominations closing soon

Start Date: March 16, 2026
End Date: April 30, 2026
Nunavut-wide 60 sec

There is still time to nominate someone for the Emergency Management Exemplary Service Award (EMESA). This is a national award from the Government of Canada that recognizes exceptional contributions to emergency management across the country.

Nunavut has strong emergency management leaders – in communities, in response teams and behind the scenes.

If you know an individual or team who made a difference through preparedness, response, training, coordination, search and rescue or volunteer service, submit your nomination today.

Awards are granted in five categories:

- Resilient communities.
- Search and rescue volunteers.
- Next generation.
- Search and rescue employees.
- Outstanding contribution to emergency management.

Nominations can be submitted to Nunavut Emergency Management (NEM) at nem@gov.nu.ca by April 30, 2026. NEM can provide guidance and support to anyone interested in submitting a nomination package.

What to include in your submission:

- A nominator form.
- A nominee form.
- Two written testimonials in support of the nomination.

Supporting materials such as letters, media articles or other documentation can also be submitted. Nominations should describe achievements from January 1, 2024, to December 31, 2025.

For more information, visit the Government of Nunavut's website, or the Government of Canada's website.
