The 2025 Nunavut Food Price Survey, prepared by Nunavummit Kiglisiniartiit, is now available on the Government of Nunavut (GN) website. Conducted in March 2025, this survey compares prices for commonly purchased food items and essential household goods in all 25 Nunavut communities.

The 2025 food price survey, the first since 2019, establishes a new baseline for tracking food costs across the territory.

Reliable, up-to-date food price data is essential for understanding the cost of living in Nunavut. This information supports better decision-making by government, partners, and communities, and strengthens transparency and accountability around food affordability.

The Government of Nunavut remains committed to monitoring food prices and supporting initiatives that improve food security for Nunavummiut.

The report is available on the Nunavummit Kiglisiniartiit page of the Government of Nunavut website.
